Exhibitor Voice

China in-store 2023 was extremely successful. The visitor traffic at the show far exceeded my expectations, and the visitors came with various purchasing needs and clear objectives. Very high quality of visitors I would say.

Steve Jing, General Manager of Max Brilliant

This was our first time participating in China in-store. The international level of the visitors exceeded my expectations; I even met peers from Mexico and India. Additionally, I found some of the topics shared in the designer forum very interesting, including how to simplify existing retail commercial spaces, which aligns well with our company's philosophy.

Royston Lee, Chief Executive Officer of BDA

I think the transformation of the exhibition from C-star to China in-store has been very successful. The selection and invitation of the visitors were also well executed. At this year's exhibition, a large number of visitors came from professional and relevant fields.

Zenith Zeng, General Manager of Vianolux

Visitors came from all over the world, which made me experience the recovery of the industry. Moreover, the number of visitors at the event was much more than I expected, which was a big surprise for us.

Chris Lu, Executive Vice Chairman of Redman Retail

In the past, our main clients were from the real estate sector. However, with the overall downturn in the real estate industry this year, we had to shift our focus to commercial brands, so, we participated in China in-store. The outcome has been very satisfying, and we are extremely happy with the visitor flow this time. Participants who visited our booth were designers of commercial spaces or brand representatives, with clear objectives, thus making our business communication easier.

Wu Kuan, Founder of Manu Arts

We chose to participate in China in-store this year because it is a vital exhibition in the retail design industry and one of EuroShop's global series of exhibitions. Through this, we aim to gain more brand visibility and strive to win some visual creative awards. As one of the exhibitions held during the post-pandemic recovery period, the visitors at this year's China in-store exceeded our expectations.

Visitors Voice

It's great to have an exhibition like China in-store because it connects the entire upstream and downstream industry chain within the industry. It unites exhibitors including suppliers, brands, and technology providers, allowing us to see many new ideas and resources here. Additionally, some of the topics shared in the designer forum were very innovative and beneficial for me.

Mr. Fu from Estée Lauder

I find the design aesthetics of this exhibition very strong, and the presentation of the booths extremely innovative. From a designer's perspective, today I witnessed every designer reinterpreting various materials using their design philosophy and concepts, which showed me greater possibilities of creativity.

Ms. Baoer Wang, Designer of Studio Profile

The exhibition brought together many high-quality domestic design service providers. The curated area showcased brands who used paper materials, modular and editable produces, reflecting an increasingly lightweight and sustainable design trend. Future retail stores will focus more on connecting with people through the spatial environment setup. Next year, we plan to expand and upgrade around 350 stores. Look forward to seeing China in-store getting better and more exciting as it progresses!
